OT TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE. ALBANY, Thursday, April 4, 1867. Ezra Cornell introduced into the Senate to-night a bill punishing as a misdemeanor any employé of a telegraph company who divulges the contents of a telegraphic message, or any person who connives with such employé to find out the contents of any message without the consent of the person who sends it. The bill enlarging the locks on the Eric Canal was ordered to a third reading in the Assembly. An effort was made in the same body to recommit the wharves and piers bill to the Committee on ommerce and Navigation, with a view of killing it, but it failed; Yeas 38; Nays 48. Many Republicans who have exerted their influence to burden the State with still greater taxation, voted to so refer this measure, which will be of greater benefit to the commerce of New-York and the world, than all the canal and railroad bills which have been brought before the Legislature this Winter.

The Senate this morning passed the bill giving the consent of the State to the General Government to construct a ship-canal around Niagara Falls; also, the bill creating a department of charities and corrections for the County of Kings. This department rections for the County of Kings. This department is to be governed by four commissioners to be appointed by the Board of Supervisors of the county. One member is to hold office for two years, one for four years, one for six years, one for eight years. They are to have charge of all the places of correction and charities in the county, govern and regulate, and see that their inmates are of as little expense to the people as possible. The bill is an important one, and has been strongly urged by many of the most influential men of Kings. The original bill previded that the dovernor should have the appointing power, but the advocates of the measure saw that if they persisted in carrying this, the Senate would defeat the whole bill.

The sessions of the Assembly were opened this morning by the third reading of bills, but after several had thus been disposed of the. House resolved itself into Committee of the whole on the bill authorizing the construction of a railroad in Avenue C., and other streets of New-York. The bill was ordered to a third reading, wishout any amendments being proposed. The following is the route of the road:

eneing on Avenue C, at the northern extremity of through and along Amity-st. to Sixth-ave; thence and along Sixth-ave. to Uarmine-st. thence and along Carmine-st. to Clarkson-st.; thence and along Carkson-st. to Washington-st. through and along Washington-st. to t; thence through and along Reade-st. to east; thence through and along Greenwich-trow-st.; thence through and along Greenwich-trow-st.; thence through and along Greenwich-trow-st.; thence through and along Barrow-st. to both the through and along Barrow-st. to west Washington-place; thence through one West Washington-place; thence through one West Washington-place; thence through one West Washington-place; Fourth-st. to West Washington-place; thence through and along West Washington-place to Macdongal-st. thence through and along Macdongal-st. to Waverly-place; thence through and along Waverly-place to Broadway; thence through and along Waverly-place to Broadway; thence through and along Astor-place to St. Marks-place (or Eighth-st.); thence through and along St. Marks-place for Eighth-st.); to First-ave; thence through and along First-ave. to Seventh-st.; thence through and along Seventh-st.; to Avenne C; thence through and along Avenne C to Tenth-st.; thence through and along Avenne C to Tenth-st.; thence through and along Tenth-st. to the East River, with a single or double track of fron rail, of not less weight than 45 pounds to the lineal yard, together with all the necessary connections, turnouts, switches, and appurtenances for the proper working and accommodation of the road on the said route or routes.

the proper working and accommodation of the road on the said route or routes.

The said route of the to be charged is five cents.

The bull for a bridge between New-York and Brooklyn, was ordered to a third reading in the Assembly, this morning, without a dissenting voice, and exactly in the Shape it was when sent from the Senate.

Albany is more crowded now than at any time during the session. Your Common Council, Supervisors, Street, and Finance departments are all represented. The Tax lovy comes up beat year, and as it contains many rich jobs, it would be unnatural if these men, who live by that hind of business, were not here.

By a resolution introduced by Mr. Gridley the bill reorganizing the Tax Commassioners' Department of your kind of business, were not here.

By a resolution introduced by Mr. Gridley the bill reorganizing the Tax Commissioners' Department of your city was referred to the Committee on Cities, with instructions to report complete, and they having done so, the bill is now ready for a third reading. The Governor late appoint three Commissioners, to hold office for five years. The term of office of those now in office is to cease immediately upon the passage of this act.

The Governor has signed the bill consolidating the Rensselaer and Saratoga, Rutland and Washington, and Baratoga and Whitehall Rallroad Companies, and they will henceforth be managed by one corporation, under the name of Rensselaer and Saratoga Eniroad Company.

TOWN ELECTIONS. Town Elections.

The elections in the various townships of the eastern section of New-Jersey-Essex, Passaic, Hudson, Morris, Bergen, Sussex, Middlesex, Mercer, and Warren Counties—will be held on Monday next. Under an opinion lately given by the Attorney-General of the State, it is understood that in unincorporated towns the election will not be conducted under the registry law, but under the general law as heretofore. An erroneous impression prevails, however, that all the provisions of the old law apply to township elections. This is not the case in regard to the opening and closing of the polls, as the "sunset" law is sep-arate from the "registry" law, and requires that in all elections the polls shall open at 7 a. m., and close at sunset.

In New-Brunswick the Republicans have nominated Woodbridge Strong for Mayor, and the Democrats have nominated for that position Amos Robbins, the present Senator from Middlesex County. Mayor Watson has been renominated by the Paterson Democrats. In Trenton, Alfred Reed is the Democratic candidate for Mayor.

ATEST REPORTS FROM QUERETARO-VERA CRUZIN A STATE OF SIEGE-DEPARTURE OF THE FRENCH PLEET FOR HAVANA.

From Our Special Correspondent. HAVANA, March 29, 1867. The merchant steamer Alabama arrived here yesterday from Vera Cruz. Among the passengers was José Esteva, ex-Minister of Maximilian. I take the opportunity of the arrival and departure for New-York of the Alabama to send some additional news from Mexico, which, although scanty, may yet be of interest in the present uncertain state of that adjoining country. For some time past no papers or letters had been received at Vera Cruz from the interior on account of the mails being stopped by the Republicans. On the 16th inst. they stopped at Paso del Macho a locomotive with a train of cars at Paso del Macho a locomotive with a train of cars full of passengers. The courier for the last English steamer from Vera Cruz, on arriving at Rinconada, was pursued by order of the Republican leader Milan, and forcibly compelled to go back to Jalapa, by which way he was going. After taking the greater part of the mail from him they allowed him to continue his journey. The Imperialists say that this stopping of the mails and taking away the letters and papers by the Republicans, is done to conceal their ill-success. A report was in circulation at and papers by the Kepublicans, is done to conceal their ill-success. A report was in circulation at VeraCruz that Escobede's army was being pursued by the Imperialists, under the command of Miramon, Marquez, and Mendez. This is only a flying rumor, one of those tales put in circulation by Dame Re-port, for which there are no data on which to found it, nor any traces of the source from which it spring port, for which there are no data on which it springs, it, nor any traces of the source from which it springs. It must be taken for what it is worth, and that is very small. Still, the news is given in the Diario of this city as a fact, having been brought from Tampico. The battle is said to have taken place near Queretaro, after which Maximilian and Marquez returned to the capital at the head of 6,000 men; Miramined Costillo being in pursuit of the enemy at turned to the capital at the head of 6,000 men; Miramon and Castillo being in pursuit of the enemy at the head of 10,000 troops.

The news at Vera Cruz was insignificant. A letter received there from Pueblo, and which was published on a half sheet of paper for general circulation, stated that Porfirio Diaz had arrived at Acatlan with 1,000 men. The Republican forces at Matamoros and Atlixeo had all been ordered to concentrate at Puebla, but the account states that the Imperialists who garrisoned the city were in good spirits and confident of their ability to maintain the place. The Government employes there had formed themselves into a company for its defense. In Vera Cruz, likewise, several volunteer companies had been formed. Gen. Gomez, and Col. Allaqui, Prefect of Orizaba, had arrived at Vera Cruz with their forces. The former had several volunteer companies had been formed. Gen. Gomez, and Col. Allaqui, Prefect of Orizaba, had arrived at Vera Cruz with their forces. The former had assumed the general command of the place. In the withdrawal of the French, all the articles of daily use, such as charcoal, milk, &c., were immediately monopolized and raised in price. To prevent the necessary ill consequences of such a step by the speculators, the authorities there had ordered that these articles should be sold at their former price, saying that there was no reason why their price should be raised. This no doubt has been taken as a measure of precaution, to prevent any disaffection in open rebellion in the city, which, if a searcity takes place, will be very likely to occur. On the 16th fist, the new commander of Vera Cruz, Gen. Gomez, published an order declaring Vera Cruz under martial law. According to the provisions of the above, no one can enter or leave Vera Cruz by the gate of Meyced, or that of the Wharf, without a written permit from the civil authorities. No one arriving by land or by sea will be permitted to enter while examined, and ploying that his visit is for commercial purposes, or other reasons not founded on politics. The owners of hotels and boarding-houses are forbidden to admit any one inside their houses who are not furnished with a permit, and are to present daily at the Police Headquarters a list of the persons lodging in their houses. During martial law, all boats or launches must moor at the wharf or place appointed by the Harbor Master.

On the alarm beil being rung, to be announced by 20 strokes of the parish church, all the inhabitants except those who are enrolled in the city guard are to withdraw to their homes, and remain inside, with closed doors and windows, until the alarm is over, it being also forbidden them to go on the roofs of their houses, those disobeying to be punished according to military law. All stores are to close at 9 o clock in houses, those disobeying to be punished according to military law. All stores are to close at 9 o'clock in the evening, it being prohibited for more than four persons to be together inside after the above named persons to be together inside after the above-named hour; the same prohibition for the squares and streets of the city. Those offending will be considered as conspirators, and punished accordingly. The utterance of expressions prejudicial to the defense of the place, attempting to tamper with the soldiers, communicating directly or indirectly with the enemy or giving them may information, attacking public or private property. Ac., Ac., will be summarily punished. Gen. Velez has assummed the communit of all the Republican forces in the valley of Mexico, including those commanded by Palacio. At Tampice all the troops had been ordered to leave immediately for the interior, leaving the city to be guarded by the police. As I mentioned in my last letter, Marshai Bazaine left in the Souverain on Weinesday morning with men-of-war frigates and gumboats, that were for the preceding few days lying in our harbor. The Sonverain, accompanied by the two iron-clad frigates, went out first, the latter being preceded by a small stemmer used as a dispatch beat, and at 5 p. m. the rain Magenta left, bearing the pendant of Rear-Admiral Laroncien le Nourry. The Sonverain proceeds direct to Toulon, stopping at Fayal and Cadiz. The iron-clads will go to Halifax. to take in coal, and from these proceed to Breet, which was the port they left for Vera Cruz. Shortly before leaving the French Admiral paid a visit to the Captain-General to bid him adien and thank him for the attention with which he and the officers of his squadron had been treated. [Advertisement.] THE "INFLUENCE" OF THE NEW-YORK HERALD.

To JAMES GORDON BENNETT, Editor of The New-York Herald. Six: I am pleased to learn, by several fiery articles and editorials lately published in your Herald, that your interest in the fashionable news of the day has not whally ceased, although circumstances over which you exercise but little or no control may oblige you to look to other channels than your own for reliable information regarding these and many other topics.

The renewal of your incendiary (Editorial) attentions to the Academy of Music and myself awakens the cor viction that you are seriously annoyed, if not quite discouraged, at finding me once more on my feet after your frequent unsuccessful attempts, during two years past, to punish, by your Extraordinary INFLUENCE, my re creancy to the interests of your paper.

You first took up a strategic position with the intent to prejudice the public against artists whom you had never heard or seen, pronouncing them incompetent in advance of their arrival in the country. This move proved to be a bad beginning, for the public accorded these very artists a fair hearing, and quietly set aside your exceedingly INFLUENTIAL" opinion. Gracefully yielding an unten able position, you next placed in the field an antagonist from Chicago, offering to back him at any odds. I don't know whether Mr. Grau lacked heart or whether he was unscientifically trained, but certainly he failed to meet your expectations as an opera-manager. Feeling that he reputation of your superior "INFLUENCE" was at stake, he struggled desperately, but to no purpose.

By a singular chance public attention was averted from the impending mortifying defeat. The incendiary's torch was applied to the Academy of Music and a common disaster overtook the contestants. If you insist upon it I shall forego disputing your "INFLUENCE" in this particu-

You scarcely sought to dissemble the satisfaction which you derived from the destruction of the opera house involving as it did the loss of many lives) and the conequent damage to my business. Your extraordinary gratification that opera was not wanted in the United States, since it had gone out of fashion at Washington availed nothing, and the stately proportions of the ediffer were renewed. As the work advanced you manufactured Jury had discovered something unstable in or about the roof, which you volunteered to prophecy would come down through lack of your important "INFLUENCE." The Grand Jury made no such presentment, but the Suings prepared a report upon the Academy, in which he ould be guaranteed against far more "INFLUENTIAL" forces than The New York Herald. This report was puldished by you without comment.

your opinions in the matter of opera. Having discovered an impressacio worth millions—according to The Herald Italian opera, under the special "INFLUENCE" of The Herald, was at once developed. After a season of four mights at the French Theater the impressario, with his parable endowments faded from our sight, and of all this vast scheme for supplying the nation with a purified and improved opera nothing but the inexhaustible "INFLU ENCE" of The Herald remained

I presume that you have learned, through the columns of the newspapers, that the Academy of Music has been inaugurated under the former management and with the old motto, "This establishment does not advertise in The New-York Herald." The roof has not tumbled in to oblige you, so you have sought to redouble your " INFLU-Chagrined by your ill luck, you now sound an alarm of publishing your dreams of frightful explosions. imminent conflagrations, and wholesale human slaughter. But I must own that you seem to possess a more de tailed knowledge of the fires that have so recently consumed certain prominent theaters than do the proprietors or employes of these same establishments.

Your last attempt has failed to hit the mark. Instead of your peculiar "INFLUENCE" keeping the public away from the Academy, the house was full last evening, the eccipts being above $2,400.2

But enough of your failures as an "INFLUENTIAL" journalist. To my mind, your most conspicuous failure was nade in your pretended character of an honest critic, when you engaged a person to plead your cause with the public. In a letter to The Times, published in September, 1965, your apologist averred that he had investigated certain charges of black-mail which I had placed at your editorial door, and, after due deliberation, had been convinced that you were incapable of levying or taking black-mail. This communication was signed "A subscriber," without specifying whether the writer was a subscriber to The Times or to the opera, which very diplomatic vagueness suggested the fact, as it afterwards proved, that the defender of your imperiled character was a gentleman not wholly unknown to you, Mr. Henry Wikoff by name.

It is odd that Mr. Wikoff should ever have stepped forward as your champion when the question was one of black-mail. Both you and he must have forgotten what he himself once took occasion to write and publish concerning an analagous case; so to refresh your impaired memories, and acquaint the present generation with the facts, I take the liberty of reproducing from the columns of The Republic the following extract from a letter written and printed by Mr. Wikoff, when he was the agent of the celebrated dancer Fanny Elssier:

"I had informed Mile. Elssler of the disagreeable necessity of conciliating the odious paper (The Herald), and she therefore consented to receive its editor. He called 10 minutes after her arrival at the American Hotel, and offered his pen and journal unconditionally for her use. I accepted it on her behalf, and he straightway began the most extravagant "puffs," which he evidently continued for the profit they brought him in the increase of his circulation. During the Summer of 1840, Mile Elssler made every courteous acknowledgment in he power, and received Mrs., whom he had lately - * * * * * on previous occasions. Before her departure for Havana the Winter of the same year, Mile. Elssler presented Mrs. * * * * * with a rich gold bracelet of the value of $100. Her surprise may be easily imagined at hearing afterward that an abominable attack had been made on her during her absence, and which was systematically repeated until she was on the point of abandoning the country in dismay; for, in all her European experience, she had never met an individual so lost to decency, so sunk in debasement as this man, who had courted her notice, receiving her presents for his, only to repay both with inexcusable infamy. suggested to her the only apparent means to stay this foul stream of low abuse, and on her arrival in New-York, in the Summer of 1841, she bought at Storr & Mortimer's, Broadway, a service of silver for $500, and a case of jewels, consisting of ear-rings and necklace, of about the same amount, and presented them to Mrs.

"This led for a time to a truce, and a few days after Bennett wrote a letter, which he dated London, and defended her against the very pack he had set on; but he took that occasion, such is his avidity for vituperation, to abuse several other meritorious artists, among others the Seguins. Having been made to comprehend the tenure upon which Bennett accorded his services, Mile. Elssler kept up a pretty active fire of presents during her en gagement, among others, two splendid dresses for Mrs.

but of a character so vulgar and ridiculous, that Mile. Elsaler would rather have paid to escape them.

Before her departure for Havana, in February, 1842, he again presented Mrs. - - - - with a rich silver dressing case, bought in New-York, and a writing desk of great beauty. But as I knew his venal pen was given to currillity, as the sparks fly upward, I intimated plainly that if he renewed his brutalities during her approaching trip to Havana, he might expect from me certain exposrable members of the New-York press he had so often and so insolently outraged. He understood and feared me. This time Mile. Elssler escaped any further annoyance, but on her return to New-York, in 1842, she renewed her presents, and even up to the hour of her departure from this country she was under tribute to this craving shark of the press. The last present was a gold pencilcase to Bennett, who managed to encounter her just be fore her embarkation in Boston.

"I give the above facts, which I am able to substantiate in every particular the moment the opportunity offers.

"(Signed.) HENRY WIKOFF."

And now, to return to your latest expressions of solicitude for the opera. You remark, in one of your editorials that, "Its notes must be current, and of such genuineness that neither public nor singers will be inclined to dispute them." My own notes are not in the market at present, and those of my singers are readily discounted or good greenbacks to such an extent by the public that no more proscentum boxes can be had gratis at the opera for which blessings, I suppose, I am slightly indebted to the unbounded "INFLUENCE" of The New-York Herald. In which case please accept the sincere thanks of MAX MARETZEK. Yours,

NEW-YORK, April 4, 1867.
